Vincent of Beauvais (Latin: Vincentius Bellovacensis or Vincentius Burgundus; c. 1184/1194 – c. 1264) was a Dominican friar at the Cistercian monastery of Royaumont Abbey, France. He is known mostly for his "Great Mirror" (Speculum Maius), a major work of compilation that was widely read in the Middle Ages. Mirror for princes, also called mirror of princes, genre of advice literature that outlines basic principles of conduct for rulers and of the structure and purpose of secular power, often in relation either to a transcendental source of power or to abstract legal norms. La Danza Macabra: iconografia sulla brevità della vita e sul destino dei mortali. La Peste Nera è stata una delle fonti di ispirazione principali della Danza Macabra, diffusa dal XV secolo a oggi...
